has been said I think. I am surprised that we have had all the pro speeches and pleas. I want to make correction on what Senator Schmit said. He said something about grain alcohol. I think we have changed that title now to power alcohol and maybe that will make some difference to you. As a farmer, I, of course, would like to see grain used but I am going to tell you and stand up here and tell you that the increase in the price of grain that we are going to get from this is not going to solve our problems in that respect. So those of you that feel the farmers are going to get a boon from this, I think you should think again because remember we are one of the largest users of fuel also. So unless we can get something back from this alcohol, that is where our advantage will be. There is a lot of interest in gasohol over the United States and Senator Maresh mentioned some of the things that we heard in Chicago a couple of weeks ago. Even some of the large distilleries are talking about going to the production of power alcohol now instead of drinking alcohol so perhaps maybe we will get some help from them eventually and I would have hoped that it happened a long time ago. I really am quite disappointed in our system here in Nebraska, especially our coop system where we have the people that buy the grain and also sell fuel and I certainly feel that they should have been the ones that would have taken the lead in this but the amount of money that it takes, the millions of dollars, scares most of us off I think so I think we need some incentive from the State of Nebraska. The gas tax, we argued about that in one of the hearings and I know that there will be some arguments about how we compare with the states next to us in gas tax but, my goodness, the difference we have between stations right now is just unbelievable. I see by the paper where there is as much as fifteen cents difference in the amount you pay for a gallon of gas and right now we're in a terrible bargaining position with the people who furnish us fuel, our oil from overseas, and I don't think it is going to get any better. I think they know they have us over a barrel and they are going to keep twisting. Many of you have suggested, and we have suggested as farmers, that we get together and make food as important as petroleum is to the world. I wish that were possible and I wish we were able to do it because then we could walk away after we have a conference with smiles on our faces when the TV cameras are on us, a smirk, if you want to call it, that we have got you just where we want you, at our mercy. So I think that we have no choice. Just think what would happen if we had a ten percent alcohol blend right now. It would just about take care of the shortage that we have and we wouldn't have a shortage. We
